

High School Band Newsletter

Hello fellow band geek and welcome back! This year is going to look very different for our class. Even though this might feel different, I am using this opportunity to try some new things for our band class. I hope you are as excited I am to get together and start making music! If you have any questions before the start of school, please feel free to contact me.

Google Classroom is another way to communicate with me. Invites to these classrooms have been sent out.

Expectations

Due to the unprecedented circumstances this year, my goals are to make my classroom safe for all students. Masks will be required due to the small size of my classroom. You will be expected to socially distance yourself for the entirety of class. Seat assignments will be made after the first class to better help with contact tracing. Students will be allowed to leave class one at a time. We will be venturing outside to better socially distance.

Virtual

All students who are opting for virtual learning. You will be expected to check the Google Classroom to stay up to date on assignments and projects. My goal is to be responsive to any questions you might have during this time. Please have patience as this year will present many new challenges to both teachers and students.
